Operation

Before use, check that power supply corresponds to that required by the machine, and the machine must be grounded. Check the fixed nut of blade and tighten it. Cut meat into pieces, suiting the feed-size. Feed the pieces in order, and keep the work smoothly. After use, disconnect from the electricity supply, discharge the top cover, and wash blades, as to avoid bacteria growth. Do not flow water into the bearing and motor. Lubricate the bearings and gears occasionally.

Maintenance

- Always turn the machine off before proceeding with its cleaning. Disconnect the machine from the main power source and deactivate power on breaker panel. The machine should be cleaned daily, both before and after its use. Given the easy access to all its components, the cutter/chopper is simple to clean using just warm water and a mild detergent.
- Never use bleach nor any abrasive cleaners which could damage the stainless steel or other materials.
- Never use steam or a high pressure jet of water to clean the cutter/chopper; avoid getting water in the interior of the machine, especially through or around any electrical components.
- After every operating session, use a brush to carefully clean the bowl, the knife shaft, and the interior part of the knife lid, the hinge of the lid, and the lid holding screws if necessary.
- Do not put your hands near the cutting edge of the knives without using adequate protection (gloves made of reinforced metal fiber).
- The knife head can be removed in one piece in order to clean it under running water; take care not to drop the knife head assemblage on the floor or on your feet.

Maintenance

- Do not wash the knives in water hotter than 60°C or colder than 10°C. Do not wash the knives immediately after using the machine since an abrupt change in temperature could cause internal micro fissures or deformations.
- It is extremely important to keep the surfaces holding the knives and separation rings clean to avoid build-up of mixture residues. Such a build-up could create areas which bear more pressure than others, possibly causing micro fissures that could damage or break the knife.
- To clean the machine manually, always use appropriate safety equipment (latex gloves, plastic aprons).
- Always rinse the machine thoroughly after using any kind of detergent or disinfectant and be sure to follow the manufacturers' instructions when using cleaning products.
